IAA and derivatives thereof have long been utilized into plant growth compositions.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

(f) he did not himself invent the subject matter sought to be patented.

(g)(1) during the course of an interference conducted under section 135 or section 291, another inventor involved therein establishes, to the extent permitted in section 104, that before such person's invention thereof the invention was made by such other inventor and not abandoned, suppressed, or concealed, or (2) before such person's invention thereof, the invention was made in this country by another inventor who had not abandoned, suppressed, or concealed it. In determining priority of invention under this subsection, there shall be considered not only the respective dates of conception and reduction to practice of the invention, but also the reasonable diligence of one who was first to conceive and last to reduce to practice, from a time prior to conception by the other.

Claims 1,2,4-6,9,10 and 52-70 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Engvild (Phys Plant 44(4) 1978, pp 345-6 (as cited in the parents)).

Engvild teaches compositions of substituted IAA's which affect the growth of plants. The reference anticipates the claim subject matter. Applicant alleges that the reference is not enabling, however as the claim is drawn to a product and the prior art discloses said product, a holding of anticipation is proper. Applicant argues that there is no kit disclosed, however the medium and a container are the only requirements for the kits and the reference clearly disclose a medium and a container therefore.

Claims 1,2,4-6,9,10 and 52-70 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b,e) as being obvious over Lin et al (5674731).

Lin et al teaches compositions of substituted IAA's (note for example the background of the invention). Applicant argues that there is no kit disclosed, however the medium and a container are the only requirements for the kits and the reference clearly disclose a medium and a container therefore.

The reference anticipates the claim subject matter.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
